Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm will master catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell the 50 cent size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.
The Balm is used without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

The Daring Pike.

The boldness of a pike is very extraordinary. I have seen one follow a bait within a foot of the spot where I have been standing, and the head keeper of Richmond park assured me that he was once washing his hand at the side of a boat in the great pond in that park when a pike made a dart at it and he had but just time to withdraw it.

A gentleman now residing in Weybridge, in Surrey, informed me that, walking one day by the side of the river Wey near that town, he saw a large pike in a shallow creek. He immediately pulled off his coat, tucked up his shirt sleeves and went into the water to intercept the return of the fish to the river and to endeavor to throw it upon the bank by getting his hands under it.

During this attempt the pike, finding he could not make his escape, seized one of the arms of the gentleman and lacerated it so much that the wound took a month to heal.—London Fishing Gazette.

He Caught O'Connell.

Daniel O'Connell, the famous orator, when taking a ride in the neighborhood of his house had occasion to ask an urchin to open a gate for him. The little fellow complied with much alacrity and looked up with such an honest pleasure at rendering the slight service that O'Connell said:

"When I see you again I'll give you sixpence."

Riding briskly on, he soon forgot the incident and fell to thinking of graver matters, when, after traveling some miles, he found his path obstructed by some fallen timber, which a boy was stoutly endeavoring to remove. On looking more closely he discovered it to be the same boy he had met in the morning.

"What!" cried he. "How do you come to be here now?"

"You said, sir, the next time you seen me you'd give me sixpence," said the little fellow, wiping the perspiration from his brow.

The Very Thing

The old gentleman poked his nose in and out of the mysterious corners of the furniture shop.

"By the way," he said suddenly, "my daughter has just started to—er—have a young man come calling, and I suppose I really ought to get a pretty sofa for them to make love on."

"Most certainly, sir!" responded the suave shopman. "And here, I think, I have the very thing you need. It is called 'Cupid's Retreat' and is specially suited for courting couples."

"Why, sir, the particular good point is this—the pretty covering you see before you is guaranteed to wear off in just one year."

"Why, sir, because it leaves displayed a card upon which are written the words, 'Time to get married!' Neat, isn't it?"—London Answers.

Queer Virginia Oysters.

But, sure enough, did you know there were some oysters, and Virginia oysters at that, which cannot live always under sheets of water? The seaside oyster does not grow in deep water, say over ten feet, and the most and best of them grow in water so shoal that it is dry ebb half the time. These latter are the most prolific seed bearers we have, but they will die if planted in deep water or in the Chesapeake bay. The inside or bay oyster should never ebb bare to thrive best. Singular, isn't it, that the Virginia oysters, one and the same bivalves, can lead a double life, but only one phase of it at a time! The seaside fellow must be out of water a good portion of his time to thrive, while the bay and river fellow will die in summer and freeze in winter if exposed to the air.—Virginia Citizen.

The Roast.

"To judge woman by her looks is to court error," said a well known woman. "I know a man who while carving at a dinner wished to say something that would please the pale, deep eyed, spirituelle girl at his side.

"'How do you like Maeterlinck?' he at last inquired.

"'Well done,' she answered, not once lifting her eyes from the great roast he was working on."—Washington Post.

A Difficult Case.

"Please step over to the club and join us at a rubber of whist."

"Emilie, dear," he said to his wife, "here I am called away again. It appears to be a difficult case—there are three other doctors on the spot already."

New.

"I want you," said the stage manager, "to play the part of a banker, and I want you to try to play it with a touch of originality."

"All right," responded Yorick Hamm, "I'll leave off the mutton chop whiskers."—Kansas City Journal.

The Difficulty.

"Could you bring yourself to live in a flat on £4 a week?"

"I could, Harold," answered the pampered yet unspoiled darling. "But I do not know just how it would suit my French maid."—London Tatler.

The Real Question.

"Where does he get his money?"

"I don't know where he gets his, and I don't care. What I am interested in is knowing just how he gets mine."—Nashville American.

Holding Trumps

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Bitter Creek cared little for the presidential race. It was too remote from the center of things to care which of the two Williams occupied the White House. It was the tail of the ticket that interested Bitter Creek, and interested it mightily.

The camp had reached a stage in its development where a local sheriff was of greater importance than a national ruler. The fight was to be made strictly on party lines, but the parties were the Colcordites and the Myliusites.

It was agreed that either man would admirably perform the onerous duties of the office, but Ben Colcord and Tom Mylius both wanted the place, and the contest would be none the less exciting because the two men were close friends.

"This sure is going to be a fight," announced Colcord when he met his chum after the nomination. "No hard feeling if I beat you, Tom?"

"If you can," confirmed Mylius, with a laugh. "I think I see myself wearing that badge already, Ben."

"Not if I can help it," denied Colcord. "I've a few ideas as to how to run a campaign myself, and I'm going to try them."

"Anything short of shooting," assented Mylius. "I hold the trump card, though. You wait and see."

Bitter Creek did not have long to wait. Colcord led from the first and took the first trick by fitting up the old Bella Union as a picture show. In between reels he made a speech to the audience, and the audience included most of the townspeople in the course of the evening.

The pictures were changed every evening, and even the barkeepers at the new Bella Union and the Yalta were permitted to take time off to see the new reel run through.

Business at the faro tables suffered, and Colcord would have become unpopular had it not been that at the conclusion of each performance he led the audience across the street for a drink, patronizing first the Bella Union and then the Yalta.

It was the general opinion that Colcord had set a pace too swift for his rival to follow, but Mylius only smiled.

This smile grew broader the following week when Mylius played and took the second trick. Bitter Creek sadly lacked the feminine element. Save for Mrs. Mulligan, who ran the Golden West hotel, the census of Bitter Creek was entered in the male column of the records.

The arrival of Edna Mylius created nothing less than a sensation, and that evening the picture show was deserted, while the voters of Bitter Creek slowly filed past the Golden West in the hope of obtaining a sight of the new arrival.

Edna Mylius was well worth the trouble. She was a slip of a girl with a coronet of silky hair the color of virgin gold. She dressed with an artful simplicity far more fetching than the latest fashion, and her smile was simply irresistible. She was just out of college, in love with the west and delighted to be one of the factors in an election contest.

Tom fitted up a store near the picture show, and waffles, with real honey, vied with the pictures as an attraction. Waffles were Edna's specialty, and with sleeves rolled above her dimpled elbows, with dainty apron and a coquetish cooking cap, her face flushed from the heat of the fire, she was a picture—and a moving one—far more effective than the product of lantern and film across the street. Bitter Creek decided that of the two Tom Mylius was better fitted to be sheriff.

Colcord racked his brains for something to counteract the effect of the waffles and brought down to the Creek half a dozen minor pugilists, who battled for the benefit of a mere handful of spectators, while the rest of the camp watched Edna make fudge.

Colcord left the fight and went over to see what success the fudge maker was having. The room was packed with men solemnly masticating the toothsome compound, while Mylius made a speech.

They listened, as in duty bound, but all eyes were upon the trim little figure hovering over the stove at the end of the hall. She had impressed Mrs. Mulligan as assistant, and the ponderous figure of the elder woman made an excellent foil for the girl.

Edna looked up, with a smile, as Colcord entered and made his way to the stove. It was by no means his first visit, and she had come to like the frank, breezy man who at once was her brother's friend and rival.

"I'm perfectly happy," she whispered as she offered Colcord a plate of the sweets. "When we made fudge in a chafing dish I used to say that I hoped some day to be able to make all I wanted to. I've got my wish sooner than I expected."

"I wish I might have mine," retorted Colcord.

"You can't," was the prompt reply. "I'm going to elect Tom as sheriff. Perhaps if you are real good I'll elect you the next time."

"It's hard to fight fudge," assented Colcord, with a laugh, "but there is still the home stretch to be run off. You wait and see."

"The way to men's hearts is through their stomachs," she reminded.

"A lesson you have taught me," he admitted. "You have dealt me the trump card."

"I thought you told Tom you held it all along," she retorted.

"This is a new deal—and a new trump," he declared mysteriously. "You wait and see."

He would not explain further, and presently he made his way back to the picture theater, where the concluding bout was just over. It had been an expensive experiment, and Colcord reflected that if fudge could beat fighting in Bitter Creek he had already lost.

His trump card was a burgoo. Colcord was from Kentucky, and he had pinned his last faith on this savory stew, the weapon of the politician, the delight of voters for generations.

Two aged negroes were imported to superintend the making, and Colcord had selected a field on the outskirts of the town where the crowds would have to pass his rival's house on the way to the grounds.

The day before election was selected for the function, and all business was suspended by common consent that every one might participate.

Colcord watched Mylius sharply for a counter move, but no announcement came, and, with a chuckle, Colcord assured himself that at last he had played a trump, and played it at a moment when it would save the game.

He made an early trip to the grounds, where already the great stew was bubbling and seething in its caldron. Edna was in the yard in front of the shack her brother had taken when he had arranged for her coming, and he stopped to chat and brag a little on his success.

"I don't suppose that you'd care to come to the grounds," he said, "but you really ought to taste the burgoo. There is nothing else like it. I'll send or bring some over."

"I shall be delighted," was the demure reply, and Colcord rode on rather sorry that he had to whip Edna's brother. It might reduce his chances of winning Edna, and that was even more important now than the office on which he had once set his heart.

It had been announced that the burgoo would be served at 2 o'clock, but it was well past that time when a single rider came to explain why the crowd had not shown up.

"Mylius is giving a lawn party," explained Colcord's friend. "There's a dancing floor laid down in his yard and a band from Silver City. You can't get a man past the place, for Miss Edna is dancing with all in turn. Looks as though we were beaten, Ben."

"I'm rather glad that we are," was the unexpected reply as Colcord turned to give an order.

Some time later the guests at the lawn party were surprised to see Colcord drive up. In the wagon box were the two negroes and the caldron of burgoo.

"I promised to bring you some," explained Colcord as he approached Edna, "and as no one else seemed to want any I brought all of it. It may help out with the refreshments. It's rather a cold day for a lawn party and the hot stew will be appreciated."

"Splendid!" cried Edna. "If you will drive round the house I'll show you where you can have it served. We only have cakes and lemonade."

She led the way to the back of the house, where the two cooks unloaded Colcord's addition to the refreshments and prepared to serve it. Colcord made the best use of his time, and when he appeared in the front yard again he approached Mylius.

"Tom," he said, "you can be sheriff, for I'm going to be your brother-in-law. I told you that I would win, but I didn't realize that my trump card would be the one you held."

A Hungry Mexican Shark.

Pursued by a nine foot shark, which when they abandoned their boat at the shore put his front fins on the edge of the boat and ate the fish therein as a pig would eat out of a trough until in its greed it swallowed a big hook thrown into the pile of fish, is the story told by several fishermen and people who saw the windup of the affair. The fishermen were returning to port with their sloop filled to the gunwales with fish when they noticed a great fish pursuing them and rapidly gaining on them, although still about 1,000 feet away. They hurried to the pier, where in terror they scrambled out of the boat. The shark, for such the fish proved to be, followed them and immediately mounted part way into the boat, where he began devouring great quantities of fish in single mouthfuls. The fishermen hurriedly secured a shark hook, which they threw in with the fish. The shark, after a mouthful or two, took the hook into his mouth along with several fish and swallowed it. A crowd of people had gathered by this time, and all lent a hand in pulling the monster in.—Mexican Herald.

The Meeting and the Parting.

They had met by chance at Atlantic City. They were strangers to each other, but he was convinced that she was a southern girl of high caste, and she in turn believed him to be a New York man of money.

"You are from New York, aren't you?" she abruptly asked when they had paused for a moment after a stroll along the beach.

"Yes," he answered, determined to reveal himself in his true station. "I live in East Sixteenth street, where I grovel among my fellow clerks on $10 a week. But you—you are a southern lady of social distinction and"—

"No," she coldly rejoined; "I live in East Sixteenth street among the clerks also."

"Anywhere near 258?" he faintly asked.

"Next door—256!"

Then they parted.—New York Times.

The Wave of Reform And the Sonoma Valley.

THE reform wave, with tidal magnitude, is sweeping the country from Maine to Florida, and with mighty impact the infectious undulation has swept into various sections of our own State with irresistible force. In San Francisco and other bay cities it is spending its force to stamp out grafting, horse-racing, the pool rooms and all those other evils having a tendency to corrupt the morals of a community and lead our youth astray.

This periodical reform wave has also swept into the interior of Northern California, and in many of its cities and towns efforts are being made to regulate or squelch many existing evils which have fastened themselves upon the body politic. Only last week the wave of reform, surmounting all barriers, penetrated into the fastnesses of Lake county, and when it receded after election day, it left many of its prominent summer resorts high and "dry." We take it that the morals of Lake county must be in a bad way, or else its people simply desired to poise as the real thing in reform, when they proclaimed to the world that its resorts must close their doors, for that is what the frenzied reform wave means to a section so much sought after by health-seekers and tourists in general. The people up that way probably need reforming, but having no direct knowledge of the morality of Lake county we are not prepared to say. Its people, no doubt, followed out the old axiom that "charity begins at home" when they voted themselves dry. "Verily, whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad."

The people of our own Sonoma Valley, while this spirit of reform is pervading many communities in the land, are to be congratulated that there is little or nothing to be reformed in their midst. Have we not our houses of worship, our high school, grammar school, free public libraries, literary and fraternal societies, womens' clubs and all those other adjuncts which go to make up an intelligent, moral and upright community, while being free from those vices we read and hear so much about?

We have no Emeryville race track, no Saucelito pool rooms, no San Francisco grafters, nor gambling hells, nor brothels and those other vices which have fastened themselves upon other interior communities. Our jail is almost a useless adjunct to the town and there is no spot in all of California where there is less drunkenness, less crime and less vice than right here in the Sonoma Valley. In other words there is, broadly speaking, little for the reformers to reform here. They must draw upon their imagination.

AT last the people of San Francisco have thrown off the yoke of the Spring Valley water company, which for fifty years has held the water consumers in its vice like and greedy grasp. At a bond election held in that much-abused city on Thursday the Hetch Hetchy scheme for a municipal water supply from the snow-clad Sierra was carried by an overwhelming majority. There were 34,950 votes in favor and 5,708 against the proposition

Now that we have just passed through one of the most exciting local political elections that has ever taken place in this valley let us forget it and turn our thoughts into different channels. There are many things to which we may bend our energies, among them being a sewer system for the town and the settlement and development of the beautiful Sonoma Valley. Thank heaven, we don't have Supervisorial elections every year. They are too strenuous.

THE county official election returns give Congressman D. E. McKinlay the handsome plurality of 1724. Of this Sonoma contributed her mite by giving the Congressman who does things 79 majority out of 205 votes cast. Mr. McKinlay's majority in the district will go over 5,000.

THE concert given last night under the auspices of our local Native Sons Parlor to raise funds to preserve the old Mission of San Francisco Solano built in 1827, is a move in the right direction and reflects credit on the young men. The ancient landmark is too valuable a relic of the by-gone days to be allowed to go to decay.

It makes them plump, rosy, active, happy.

It contains Cod Liver Oil, Hypophosphites and Glycerine, to make fat, blood and bone, and so put together that it is easily digested by little folk.

NOTICE

TO

Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Clerk, in the City Hall, Sonoma City, for the construction of a stone bridge over the Nathanson Creek on East Napa street, opposite the residence of V. Bulotti. Contractors to submit a sample of stone and to state what quarry the stone is procured from, all work to be done according to the plans and specifications now on file in the office of the City Clerk. All bids to be in the hands of the City Clerk not later than 8 o'clock Saturday evening, November 21st, 1908.

No bid will be considered unless accompanied by a certified check in favor of Joseph B. Small, Clerk of the Board of Trustees, for 10 per cent of the amount of the bid. The amount of said check will be forfeited to the City of Sonoma if the successful bidder fails to enter into a contract with the city for the performance of the work within 5 days after the contract is awarded to him. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Speedily Spent.

Two young Sonomans were talking on one of the street corners on a recent evening, and one of them said:

"Jack, I've sworn off smoking. Sort of a New Year resolution, you know. I suppose you have taken some sort of a pledge, haven't you?'

"No," replied his friend. "Not one. I tried it last year, and it failed."

"How was that?"

"Well, I have alwaye been a sort of spendthrift, as you know. So last New Year's day I said to myself: 'Jack, every one else is making some sort of a resolution, why not make one yourselt?' So I resolved to save up a little money for a rainy day. That afternoon I placed a ten dollar note carefully away, and—the next day it rained."

Materially Aided the Entertainment.

Victim of Serious Accident

Emil Albers, proprietor of the one-mile resort on the Petaluma road, was the victim of a very serious accident on last Monday afternoon. As he was en route home, a refractory horse, which he was driving, became unmanageable, and at the Sonoma Valley Bank corner threw him out of the rig, severed the left ear, and otherwise mutilating him. Several stitches were necessary to append the lacerated ear, and at last accounts he was doing as nicely as could be expected.

SURVIVES WITH BULLET IN BRAIN.

Natale Pucci, who was waylaid and shot from ambush by a would-be assassin near Glen Ellen several weeks ago, still survives his wound and the doctors say he will get better.

Immediately after being shot the wounded man was hurried to the county hospital in Santa Rosa, where he was treated by County Physician Bogle, who discovered that the bullet fired by Pucci's unseen assailant had entered the head and penetrated the brain. The wound was pronounced necessarily fatal and his death was momentarily expected. To the surprise of the doctors, however, Pucci commenced to pick up and the mere matter of a bullet being mixed up with his scrambled brains did not appear to bother him in the least.

Pucci, who has accused Ettore Bianchini of attempting to assassinate him, has so far recovered from his wound as to be able to appear in court to testify against the accused, whose preliminary examination will take place in the Justices' Court in Santa Rosa at an early date.

Bianchini stoutly maintains his innocence.

SONOMA COUNTYY'S NEW GRAND JURY

It Is Composed of Nineteen Representative Citizens.

Sonoma County's new grand jury was empanelled by Judge Emmet Seawell in Santa Rosa last Monday. The jury is composed of nineteen representative citizens from every section of the county, as follows:

THE COUNTY CLUB WOMEN ENTERTAINED

Petaluma Woman's Club Does Itself Proud—Sonoma Club is Well Represented.

All roads from the towns of the various Women's Clubs of Sonoma county led to Petaluma last Tuesday, where there was a large gathering of club women from Sonoma, Santa Rosa and other near-by cities, who had been bidden there by the Woman's Club of that city.

The various delegations upon their arrival were received in Guild Hall, which had been appropriately decorated for the occasion.

An appropriate program had been prepared for the visitors and included among other features the following numbers:

Scotch selection, Miss Jean McDougall.

"The Press and Its Relation to Woman's Clubs," Mrs. P. A. Menray, of the Philomath Club, Santa Rosa.

Irish selection, Mrs. Lyman Green.

"Nature Study," Mrs. D. O. Hunt, of St. Helena.

Civics, Mrs. L. W. Burris, president of Santa Rosa Improvement Club

Scotch selection, "Loch Lomond," Miss McDougall.

Irish selection, Mrs. Lyman Green.

After the literary exercises dainty refreshments were served to their guests by the Petaluma club women, who are noted far and wide for their graciousness of manner and hospitality.

One of the features of the gathering was an automobile ride through the city and its suburbs, which was heartily enjoyed by the visitors.

Those who attended from the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club were as follows: Mrs. Theodor Richards, Mrs. P. N. Stofen, Miss Meta Stofen, Mrs. Fred Poulson, Mrs. F. Clewe, Mrs. S. Ciucci, Mrs. John Wagnon, Mrs. A. Pinelli, Mrs. Sam Woodworth, Mrs. H. E. Calderwood and Mrs. Otto Wagner.

County's Cash Box.

County Treasurer Murdock reports the following funds in the county treasury on October 31st: Bond fund, $3314.14; indigent, $3977.18; rebate, $157.69; register state land, $42; road apportionment, $6,286.12; school fund, $1242.56; school fund apportionment, $65,572.11; state, $14,372.70; swamp and overflowed land, $8058.48; teachers' institute and library fund, $345.30; unapportioned, $32,759.04; law library, $736 84; general fund, $21,371.18; tax redemption, $2143.64; pound fund, $56.60; court house building fund, $81,363.81. Total, $241,799.39.

The balance on hand October 1st was $288,265.76, and on the 31st this had been reduced by expenditures to $241,799.39.

Grand Opening of the Palace Cafe.

Fred. Leidecker, proprietor of the Palace Cafe, opposite the telegraph office on Napa street, has issued invitations to the general public to attend the opening of his resort this (Saturday) evening. The cafe has been elegantly fitted up and it is Mr. Leidecker's aim to make the Palace a first-class resort.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT

Says Many Persons Here Can Be Made Hade Happy Again by Using It.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acdis and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active or who suffer from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Country Boys Wanted For Business Positions.

Business men of Oakland and San Francisco, and other large cities, want young men reared in the country to prepare for commercial positions. Experience has shown that the average boy from the farm has habits of industry and integrity that make for success.

The Polytechnic Business College of Oakland, Cal, has made a phenomenal record in training and placing young men and women in business positions, and the College is so located as to provide homelike accommodations at very low rates

It is said that every young man who has taken the complete course in business training at this College has received remunerative employment upon graduation.

An illustrated Catalogue will be sent free to any one who will write to Prof. W. E. Gibson, 306 Twelfth street, Oakland, Cal.

Everybody who wants to help the Woman's Club, should do so by buying at the Sonoma Racket Store, Thursday, Nov. 19, 1908. The profits of the day to be given the Club.

New Location.

Dr. F. Cornwall, the well known eye and ear specialist of San Francico, has located his offices in the Powell building, corner Ellis and Powell streets. Since his offices in the Y. M. C. building were destroyed by fire in 1906, the doctor has been located on Van Ness avenue.

Turkey Raffle.

There will be a grand turkey raffle at the Bridge Saloon, on the road between this city and El Verano, to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 1 o'clock. The proprietor, Ed. Hageman, invites the public to attend and win a turkey.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Wise Talks by the Office Boy.

It is the chap who bounds out of bed after a night's sleep and hits the floor with a bounce like a rubber ball; the man with a clear head, a strong heart and a glow of health in every vein, who can be depended upon to make good in the store, the office or the shop, before the close of day. He can do four times the work, bear four times the strain, think four times as quickly and efficiently. Remember this and you'll be entitled to raise of salary every month of your life, providing, of course, you don't lose your head and imagine the boss can't get along or run his business without you (for he can). The idea is for him to feel that he can't—not you.

We have a nice lot of overcoats we feel we can get along without. We'd like you to get within one. You have no idea how good they are, until you see them and try them on. They are marked from $7.50 to $17.50 for men; $4.00 to $8.50 for kids, and every one a bargain. WILLIE.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, do you open your mouth like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?

If you are an intelligent thinking woman in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true honest medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration?

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative profesional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How a Girl Throws.

Perhaps a better title would have been "How a Girl Doesn't Throw," because it is well known that a girl cannot propel a ball or anything else like a boy. Most people—and all boys—conclude that this defect arises from clumsiness, but that is a mistake.

The difference between a girl's throwing and a boy's is substantially this:

The boy crooks his elbow and reaches back, with the upper part of his arm about at a right angle of forty-five degrees. The direct act of throwing is accomplished by bringing the arm back with a sort of snap, working every joint from shoulder to wrist.

The girl throws with her whole arm rigid, the boy with his whole arm relaxed. Why this marked and unmistakable difference exists may be explained by the fact that the clavicle or collar bone in the feminine anatomy is some inches longer and set some degrees lower down than in the masculine frame. The long, crooked, awkward bone interferes with the full and free use of the arm. This is the reason why a girl cannot throw a stone.

First Victory of the Revolution.

The importance of the assault upon Fort William and Mary is generally overlooked by historians. The demonstrations against various British armed vessels, beginning with the firing upon the schooner St. John in July, 1764, as well as the battle of Alamance, in North Carolina, in 1771, were essentially local and were so far removed from the Revolutionary period that they produced no appreciable effect upon the war itself. The "Boston massacre" was the repulse of a mob by a squad of British regulars, but at Fort William and Mary the royal standard was lowered for the first time, and the gunpowder taken therefrom was burned by the patriots at Bunker Hill. The king recognized in the daring assault the inevitability of the impending struggle. There is truth in the claim set forth on the tablet on the old Fort Constitution of today that the site marks "the first victory of the American Revolution."—Army and Navy Life.

A Pretty Warm Fish.

A well known fisherman was fishing for perch and was seated along the edge of a lake near the roots of a large tree, which was a favorite spot for the perch. Luck had been only fair, and he was debating on the question of hauling in the line and going home when there came a powerful tug.

He knew that he had a huge fish and struggled vigorously for twenty minutes before he landed his prize. It was a sunfish, one of the largest he had ever seen. He landed it on the bank, and then he noticed that the rays from the fish were so powerful that he was almost blinded, and the grass in the vicinity was shriveled up by the heat.

A few minutes later the man fell over. He had been sunstruck by the sunfish and was beyond hope.—Philadelphia American.

Startling.

A gentleman opened a letter addressed to his son containing suggestions from a friend to the latter for a novel which he (the son) was privately writing. The father was exceedingly surprised and frightened upon reading the following dreadful words:

Dear Bob—You really must show more caution in constructing your plots, or the governor will be sure to discover the dead body of Geraldine in the cellar, and then your secret will be out. You consulted me about the strychnine. I certainly think you are giving it him in rather large doses. Let Emily put her mother in a madhouse. It will answer your purpose well to have the old girl out of the way. I think your forgery is for too small a sum. Make it three thousand. Leave the rest of your particularly nice family circle to me. I will finish them off and send you back the "fatal dagger" afterward by post. Yours,

JACK.

Burning Heretics.

The following items, copied from the municipal records of Canterbury by an English magazine, show that the burning of heretics in 1535, the time of the genial King Henry VIII., was an inexpensive amusement:

To bringing a heretic from London	14s. 8d.
For wood to burn him	2s. 0d.
For gunpowder	1d.
A stake and staple	8d.
Total	17s. 5d.

Inspiring Hope.

The Doctor—Bear up. I must tell you the worst—you can't possibly recover. The Client—That's a pity, for if I'd lived a bit longer I should have come into a fortune. As it is, I haven't a penny to pay you with, doctor. The Doctor—Well, now, don't give up hope. We'll try to mend you. We'll try.—Illustrated Bits.

As to Stage Fright.

"Stage fright" is surely among the most mysterious of sudden seizures. It begins when the actor or speaker thinks "they are not interested in me." It ends when he determines "I will interest them."—London Chronicle.

The Modern Child.

Little Girl of Four (standing entranced before the window of a toyshop)—Oh, mother, if you was my little girl, wouldn't I take you in and buy you some of these lovely things!—London Tatler.

Her Preference.

"I want to make a gift to Miss Passay," said Dumley. "I wonder what sort of animal she'd prefer for a pet?"

"A man," promptly suggested Miss Knox.—Philadelphia Press.

Conceit.

Conceit is that attitude of the mind which convinces a man that if he had only lived soon enough he would have been the author of the Bible.—Detroit Free Press.

I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience. I know no way of judging of the future but by the past. —Patrick Henry.

Apothecary's Weight.

"Yes," replied the bright girl, "I believe he has no scruples in that direction."—Philadelphia Press.

A Keen Business Man.

Noah landed on Ararat.

"Fine," he cried—"a mountain and seashore resort in one!"

Herewith he started to build a summer hotel.—New York Sun.

Far Fields Are Greener.

And when he becomes a man he always boasts of what he did when he was a boy.—Pick-Me-Up.

Twain's Emancipation.

An honorary degree was once conferred on Mark Twain by a humble institution in a Missouri town that had known him when he was playing Tom Sawyer there in real life.

It happened that the degree conferring cermonies took place one lazy day in June when newspapers generally were suffering from a total collapse of everything in the way of news.

One New York news editor raked the land with a figurative fine tooth comb and got a dry haul for his pains. Then, recalling that Mark Twain was getting his honorary degree that very day, it occurred to him that a message direct from the famous author might relieve the situation in the news. After much scratching of the editorial idea factory he evolved this query, which was transmitted to Mark Twain by wire:

How does it feel to be a doctor of laws? Please wire answer at our expense.

After a wait of several hours this characteristic response came hot over the wire from Missouri:

Riding a Camel in the Desert.

Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, was the guest of a rich Hamburg merchant. The merchant's son, a young man of a somewhat sentimental temperament, said among other things that his dearest wish was to ride across the desert on the back of a camel. He thought such a ride must be very poetical indeed.

"My dear young friend," replied the explorer, "I can tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel on the deserts of Africa is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible and put it in a wagon without any springs. Then seat yourself on the stool and have it driven over rocky and uneven ground during the hottest weather of July or August and after you have not had anything to eat or drink for twenty-four hours, and then you will get a faint idea of how delightfully poetic it is to ride on a camel in the wilds of Africa."

THE NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION OF
WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Excels in Vocabulary. It is the most useful in size and contents, judiciously selected to exclude corruptions of good usage, and to avoid unintelligible technicalities.

Excels in Arrangement. Each word begins a paragraph in its correct alphabetical place and is readily caught by the eye.

Excels in Etymologies. These are complete and scientific, and embody the best results of philology. They are not scrimped or crowded into obscure places.

Excels in Pronunciation which is indicated by respelling with the diacritically marked letters used in the schoolbooks, the sounds of which are taught in the public schools.

Excels in Definitions. They are clear, terse, yet complete, and are given in the order in which the word has acquired its shades of meaning. Many of the definitions are illustrated.

Excels in its Appendix which is a packed storehouse of useful knowledge.

Excels as a Working Dictionary. No other book embodies so much useful information, or is so indispensable in the home, study, school, or office.

The International has 2380 quarto pages, 5000 illustrations, 25,000 new words, revised Gazetteer of the World, and a revised Biographical Dictionary, etc. It received

THE GRAND PRIZE

FREE—"A Test in Pronunciation," instructive and entertaining for the whole family. Also illustrated pamphlet.
